If you've ever tried to use osu! and found yourself shuffling around awkwardly in search of a beat, it's usually because your mouse is starting the song automatically and you don't even know it. You might just be playing "jack" or not even moving at all. This applies to most rhythm games with this feature, such as maimai and Taiko no Tatsujin. Well, fret no more! We're giving away our very own osu autoplay bot that will ensure you're only playing the songs you want. It simply downloads the beatmap, extracts it to a directory of your choosing, starts the game with the downloaded beatmap and sets it to autoplay. It's that simple! To set it up, you'll need: There are two ways to achieve this: (1) Download the bot and extract; or (2) use git. The usage is quite simple; simply run "index.py" in your command prompt with no arguments. The interface should look like this:

Feel free to modify "index.py", "config.py", and "beatmaps/osu_autoplay_bot/hooks.py" if you want to tweak this for yourself.
